U. S. Navy, Mediterranean BY VICE ADM. JAMES FIFE, USN U. S. Naval Deputy, Commander in Chief, Mediterranean

AS reported by Thucydides, Pericles is reputed to have told the Athenians in 432 B.C.:

"Of vast consequence indeed is the dominion of the sea. The Naval, like other sciences, is the effect of art. It cannot be learned by accident nor usefully exercised at starts; or rather, there is nothing which so much requires an uninterrupted application."

Ever since then, soldiers, and others who are not intimately connected with the sea, have had difficulty in hoisting aboard the value of the use of the sea for both peacetime and war application. Pericles was speaking about a small portion of the Mediterranean but what he had learned was later applicable throughout the Mediterranean and eventually to the seven seas.

Later on, Napoleon learned this lesson as it pertained to both the Mediterranean and the Atlantic, but only after he was thwarted because of his inability to control the sea. More recently, Rommel also gained a full appreciation of the value of being able to use the Mediterranean when he was stopped in North Africa because necessary logistic support failed to reach him because of an absence of the control of the sea routes to his army. As a bit of afterthought, Rommel expressed the view that had the Germans taken Malta instead of Crete and diverted the resources which they put into Yugoslavia and Greece in 1941 to his effort in North Africa, he could have taken the whole (Please turn to Next Page)

Creation of Army Supply Command Awaits Break in Secretary's Capitol Testimony

A major reorganization of Army procurement—highlighted by creation of a Supply Command—is expected to be announced shortly.

Barring a reversal of present Pentagon thinking, the procurement reorganization will be made soon after Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens is able to turn his attention to other matters than the current hearings on Capitol Hill.

The Army General Staff late this week was giving final study to the proposal prior to a presentation by General Matthew B. Ridgway, Chief of Staff, to his civilian superiors.

Establishment of a Supply Command to manage the Technical Services was recommended by the Advisory Committee on Army Organization, whose members also urged appointment of a Vice Chief of Staff for Supply.

This last step would require legislation, the Advisory Committee said.

The Committee urged that the Supply Command be given authority now held by G-4 for "direction and control of the Technical Services," with G-4 continuing as a section of the General Staff "responsible for logistical planning."

It is understood there is considerable opposition to the Supply Command proposal among the Technical Services, whose members feel that this will result in lesser stature for the Chiefs of these services.

On the other hand, authoritative reports are that the plan has strong support among influential members of the General Staff, as well as in the highest civilian echelons of the Defense Department.

When former Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett left office, it is recalled he sent a communication to then President Truman in which he observed that reorganizing the technical services would be like "backing into a buzz saw."

The Army Advisory Committee report, in the view of many Pentagon observers, did not completely back into the buzz saw, but its recommendation for a Supply Command—now apparently to be implemented—has created a considerable stir.

Senate Group OK's WO Bill, Boosts Retirement Age

The Warrant Officer Bill moved close to final enactment late this week as the Senate Armed Services Committee favorably reported the measure after boosting the mandatory retirement age from 60 to 62.

The measure, which passed the House (Please turn to Page 1101)

Pentagon Asks Budget to Reduce Charges For "Substandard" Service Housing

Legislation to correct a major Service housing problem has been submitted by the Defense Department to the Bureau of the Budget.

At present, as related in THE JOURNAL on 17 April, thousands of Servicemen and their families are being overcharged for "substandard" housing.

Defense leaders, contingent on approval of the President's Budget office, will ask Congress to cut the full quarter's allowance charge which currently is assessed for all housing provided military personnel, regardless of the condition of the housing.

This will mean that members of the Armed Forces will be required to pay out only a part of their housing allowance if they are furnished quarters which are not up to par.

Under present regulations, members of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps must turn over their full quarters allowance regardless of the condition of (Please turn to Page 1101)

Approve Plan To Revamp Thousands Of Korea War Naval Officer Promotions

Promotions for thousands of junior Navy officers would be revamped under the terms of a bill favorably reported this week by the Arends House Armed Services Subcommittee.

The measure (HR 8635) affects almost 30,000 officers who either were promoted or failed twice to be promoted under the terms of the Temporary Promotion Act of 1941.

Of this group, 25,000 officers (both Regular and Reserve) were promoted to temporary grades up to and including lieutenant commander. Under present law they must be reselected by statutory boards convened under the provisions of the Officer Personnel Act. The new bill, which was requested by the Navy, would eliminate this requirement, affirm in their present ranks all those who have been selected, and establish their precedence as of the date of their temporary promotion.

Additionally, more than 2,000 who twice failed to be selected by the temporary boards would be permitted to be discharged with severance pay. This group would be permitted the option of re- (Please turn to Page 1079)

PRESIDENT OK'S ARENDS BILL

Directives affecting voluntary retirement of officers will be issued shortly by the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps, following Presidential approval on 5 May of the new Officer Grade Limitations Act (the Arends Bill).

The measure repeals the current restriction on retirements which is contained in the 1954 appropriations act.

For the first time since the Korean war began, officers will be permitted to retire after 20 years' service.

Additionally, the measure (1) establishes new legal ceilings on the number of officers who may serve in the grades of major, lieutenant commander and above in each of the Services; (2) permits the promotion of greater numbers of Navy Nurses to the rank of commander and lieutenant commander; and (3) enhances promotional opportunities in all officer ranks by permitting the Services to conduct personnel planning on a long-term basis.

Armed Services Committees Set Fast Pace On Major Military Legislation

Members of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees are setting a fast pace for their colleagues on other committees in the pre-election session of the 83d Congress.

With four months of the legislative year behind them, the two important groups have established an enviable record. All major military bills received have been heard promptly, reported and passed in either one House or the other. Several of the most urgent proposals have been fully enacted.

The latter group includes the law creating an Air Force Academy. Some Congressional leaders have gone so far as to say the 83d Congress will be remembered for this legislative achievement if for no other.

Also high on the list is the Officer Grade Limitations Act of 1954 which moved smoothly through both Houses and which has been signed into law by the President. By restoring lost promotion and retirement privileges, this measure is expected to be invaluable to the Services in their efforts to attract and retain capable career officers.

The sympathetic reception accorded the bill in the House and Senate resulted largely from the excellent ground-work laid by Representative Leslie C. Arends (R-Ill.) his Subcommittee and staff. The two Committee Chairmen, Senator Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) and Chairman Dewey Short (R-Mo.), share equal honors for skillful presentation of the bill on their respective floors.

In quick order, also, the two Committees recommended and obtained extensions of the Missing Persons Act, the current ceiling on military strength, and the deadline date for filing elections under the Uniformed Services Contingency Option Act.

Another significant measure — the Warrant Officer Bill — passed the House without hitch and has been favorably reported by the Senate Committee. Sponsored by Chairman Dewey Short (R-Mo.) of the House Committee, the bill establishes for the first time a statutory career plan for warrant officers of all four Services. Like the Grade Limitations Act, it will serve to enhance military careers.

Four other major military proposals still are pending: the Dependents Medical Care Bill, the Reserve Officers Promotion Act, the Reenlistment Bonus Bill and the Reserve Forces Bill.

Delay on these measures, however, cannot be attributed to the Armed Services Committees. All four have been held up either by the Pentagon or the Bureau of the Budget, or both.

The Medical Care Bill reached Congress only last week after constant hurry-up requests from Senator Saltonstall and Representative Short. The Chairman of the Senate Committee introduced the measure immediately.

Previously, Chairman Saltonstall had initiated hearings on the Reserve Officer Promotion Bill (passed by the House last July) only to run into a Defense Department request for temporary postponement. Assistant Defense Secretary John A. Hannah explained that no Reserve promotion program could be "intelligently" decided until the Department had submitted its new plan to revitalize and strengthen the Reserve program.

The Reserve Forces Bill, of course, will embody these plans. Its submission to the Armed Services Committees now hinges on a report which was placed before the President last week.

Chairman Saltonstall has indicated this measure will be given every priority when it reaches the Hill. He states it will be one of the most important pieces of legislation to come before the Congress during the present session.

The Reenlistment Bonus Bill currently is at the Bureau of the Budget. Concern over the delay in transmitting this bill also caused the Chairmen of the two committees to urge faster action at the Pentagon. As a result, the measure was given last minute "priority handling" by the Defense Department, but now appears to have bogged down at the BoB.

This measure, as well as the others, will be slated for early handling, however, when it reaches the Congress.

Both military committees have made it plain they will give strong support to all proposals designed to bolster career attractiveness in the Services. Their earnest actions thus far show they are doing a job which leaves nothing to be desired except, perhaps, faster spade work on the part of the Executive branch of the Government.

O. K. 4-STARS FOR NINE

The Senate has approved promotion of nine deceased or retired Army lieutenant generals to the rank of full general.

All officers in the group served in three-star rank during WWII, either as commanders of the Army Ground Forces, an Army, or Army forces which included a field army and supporting units.

A similar bill passed the Senate last summer but was not acted on in the House due to the adjournment. The new bill (S 2468) adds the name of Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., USA-Ret.

Mediterranean coast line which would have isolated Southeastern Europe and would have secured the Mediterranean area and the Near East for the German attack on Russia. Concerning this, Rommel said, "But our superiors had inhibitions about undertaking any major operation in a theatre of war where supplies had to be brought up by sea, and the circles where obsolete and outdated ideas were held in reverence, fought tooth and nail, both then and later, against any such operation."

The difference between the events leading up to War I in 1914, War II in 1939, and now, lies in the existence of N.A.T.O. There are now fourteen nations banded together with an agreement "that an armed attack against one or more of them . . . shall be considered an attack against them all." This is probably the greatest deterrent to aggression against the West that exists today. And, although the material resources of N.A.T.O. are important, this spiritual cohesion is certainly of far more significance and is most important to build up and maintain if War III is to be avoided.

SACEUR was set up in the Spring of 1951 under General Eisenhower when there were twelve nations in N.A.T.O. He established three subordinate commands of Northern, Central and Southern Europe, the latter under Admiral Carney.

Later, when Greece and Turkey joined the entire Mediterranean became involved in N.A.T.O. and the N.A.T.O. Council decided on a fourth command directly under SACEUR to provide for the maintenance of sea communications in the Mediterranean for N.A.T.O. purposes. This was finally established under Admiral Mountbatten on 15 March 1953 with Headquarters at Malta. This was an optimum choice since Malta has been developing as a naval headquarters ever since the Knights of St. John established themselves there in 1530 after having been driven from Rhodes by Suleiman the Magnificent. This does not mean that Malta is the only place in the Mediterranean suitable for a naval headquarters but for the present it is certainly the easiest and most economical location for this establishment.

Following the digging of the Suez Canal by Ferdinand de Lesseps almost one hundred years ago, the Mediterranean became the British life-line to its empire in the East. It is still the life-line of Middle East oil coming West bound to Europe and the United Kingdom. Its use will be essential in getting supplies to the N.A.T.O. armies on its borders if they are expected to survive and hold against an enemy. A further prime necessity for keeping the Mediterranean open in the event of war is so that Admiral Fechteler's U. S. Naval Striking Force can roam at will throughout the Mediterranean to do its job of supporting CINCSOUTH's land battle. The history of War II might have been entirely different had the Japanese Striking Force which hit Pearl Harbor been available to support the British Army in Greece in early 1941.

The Headquarters of N.A.T.O. Allied Forces, Mediterranean Command, is the only primarily naval command under General Gruenther. The staff consists of British, French, Italian, Greek, Turkish and U. S. officers. Naturally, all of their thinking pertains to how we would use the Mediterranean for our own purposes in the event of war. The more the problem is studied the more a deep conviction develops that the holding of the Turkish Straits under N.A.T.O. control is as important to each of the other N.A.T.O. nations as it is to Turkey and Greece. In the hands of an enemy, the Mediterranean could easily be used as his avenue for the conquest of both the European and African continents.

Chamber of Commerce Deplores "Career" Loss, Urges Action to Raise Attractiveness

The United States Chamber of Commerce has declared that "the alarmingly high turnover rate of military personnel now being experienced should be curtailed and asserted that 'major emphasis should be placed on the factors which build up the attractiveness and prestige of military service.'"

Newly released is the official policy statement on "Armed Forces Manpower," drafted during the recently completed 42d annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in Washington, D. C.

Will Aid Campaign

Pentagon officials see in the Chamber's statement a powerful piece of auxiliary ammunition in the current campaign to raise career attractiveness.

The business leaders endorsed a statement which declared that "in view of technological advances in modern weapons and warfare, trained military personnel must be encouraged, both in the interest of economy and the welfare of the qualified individual, to remain, if at all feasible, in the service of the country."

The Chamber recommended that action be taken to raise the incentives for service in the Reserve Forces.

"The loss of trained manpower through separation and discharges and the failure of a great percentage of that manpower to join drilling units is deplorable," the policy statement observed.

Continental Defense

In its statement on "Continental Defense," the Chamber said:

"The strength of this nation lies in its production capacity and its free democratic system. The protection of that strength, in this atomic age, rests with our military forces in being, and their control of the sea and air approaches from which attack on our country could be launched. To preserve this production and military force, a well planned, integrated offensive and defensive system with supporting intelligence and early warning programs is vitally needed."

"To this end the Chamber urges the continuing development, production and maintenance of modernly equipped, well-trained retaliatory and defensive land and sea air forces, capable of all-weather operations, backed up by an improved intelligence system of enemy plans and critical target areas, and an early warning system to be completed at the earliest possible date."

SAC to Send 40th Air Div. Teams to Gunnery Meet

Two teams of F-84G Thunderjets of the 40th Air Division, Turner AFB, Ga., will represent SAC at the USAF gunnery and weapons meet set for 7 to 13 June at Nellis AFB, Nev.

SAC headquarters announced that the six-plane teams, one for a special weapons delivery event and the other for a fighter-bomber day fighter event, will be selected from the 31st and 508th Strategic Fighter Wings. The 40th Air Division choices are to be named by the latter part of May.

Earlier plans, now cancelled, had been for a SAC-wide fighter competition at Matagorda Island, Tex., 17 to 23 May, to select the teams. However, operational commitments, plus conversion to newer-type jet fighters, made it impossible to assure full participation this year by all of SAC's fighter units, according to Directorate of Operations officials.

Current plans are to have in operation by next year an annual SAC fighter competition similar to SAC's established bombing and reconnaissance contests.

Col. Luongo Named G-2

Col. Henry L. Luongo has been assigned Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, for the Second Army Area with headquarters at Ft. Meade, Md. He will be succeeded in his former position as chief of the G-3 Reserve Components Division by Col. Richard F. Reidy, who leaves the post of chief of the U. S. Army Reserve Branch, G-3 Section.

AF Selects 59 for Permanent Captain With Not A Single Pass-Over Reported

The Air Force has released the names of 59 permanent first lieutenants selected for promotion to permanent captain and said that not a single eligible officer was passed over.

Actual promotion nomination will be made so that officers can be advanced upon completion of seven years' service, the Air Force said.

The names follow in seniority order:

Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Caffey, The Judge Advocate General of the Army, on 3 May was elected president of the Washington Foreign Law Society.

Other officers elected were Smith N. Crowe, Jr., of the State Department, vice president; and Associate Professor David B. Weaver of The George Washington Law School, secretary.

General Caffey also was named to the board of governors of the Society, along with Dr. Paul M. Craig, Jr. Re-elected to the board were Newell W. Ellison, retiring president of the Society; Mr. Justice Robert H. Jackson of the Supreme Court; Dr. W. Lawrence Keitt, Law Librarian of Congress; Dr. Majid Khadduri of Johns Hopkins University; Dr. Herbert J. Leibesny of the State Department; and Col. Krit G. Logsdon of the Air Force.

The Society this week completed a series of lectures which has lasted through the winter, in co-operation with The George Washington University Law School, on the law of the Far East. The lectures were given by prominent legal scholars, some of whom were foreign diplomats assigned in Washington. The series for next winter, which again will be given at The George Washington University Law School, will concern the law of Japan.

An honor graduate of the University of Virginia Law School in 1933, General Caffey was named The Judge Advocate General of the Army early this year.

The Division went to Europe in September and participated in the Rhineland, Central Europe, Normandy and the Ardennes-Alsace campaigns. It was in combat 214 days, for a while as a part of the First Army, and later the Division was assigned to General George S. Patton, Jr., famous leader of the Third Army in its memorable march through Central Europe during WWII.

The Division was inactivated 30 Nov., 1954, and reactivated 6 July, 1948, at Camp Breckenridge, Ky. It was inactivated 27 May, 1949, and on 25 Aug., 1950, it was again reactivated at Camp Breckenridge. It was inactivated again on 1 Dec., 1953.

A Force of 180,000 officers!

That's what we serve. UNITED SERVICES AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION was organized in 1922 to provide low-cost automobile and household-personal effects insurance for Commissioned and Warrant Officers of the Armed Forces, overseas or in the states. And USAA continues to grow. During 1953, 180,000 officers of all branches were USAA policyholders and shared in dividends of $4,300,000—more than one million dollars over 1952.

Because all funds are pooled for mutual protection, USAA is able to offer low-cost insurance with savings realized in annual dividends. Besides the low cost of automobile and household effects insurance plans, more officers choose USAA because claims are settled quickly, even in the most out-of-the-way places.

Policies are available for Commissioned and Warrant Officers only, who are serving in JAPAN, WESTERN EUROPE, PUERTO RICO, PHILIPPINES, or in the STATES. USAA understands the officer's problems, for it is under the constant direction and management of retired officers of the Armed Forces.

Write now for more information on how USAA can serve you . . . and save you money. We are as close as your nearest mailbox, telephone or telegraph office. Your USAA Insurance becomes effective immediately as of time and filing date of application.

Inf. School Major Writes New Book for Small Units

A simplified and easily understood book aimed at the leaders of the Army's smaller units has been written by Maj. Frank F. Rathbun, chief of The Infantry School's Training Literature Section at Ft. Benning, Ga.

The 96-page book, titled "The Rifle Squad and Platoon in the Attack," has an illustration on every page, helping to simplify tactics covered in the Army's technical manual.

Its seven chapters explain graphically the squad and platoon organization, combat formations, attack phases and preparations for attack. At the end of each chapter is a check list for the platoon and squad leader.

Illustrations for the book were done by Charles Gonzalez Rebeles of Columbus, Ga., an illustrator in The Infantry School's art and drafting section.

Maj. Gen. J. C. Fry, chief of the Army's Career Management Office, Washington, D. C., wrote the preface, which explains the importance of small units leaders.

Brig. Gen. Mittelstaedt, 70, Retires From Calif. PUC

Brig. Gen. Richard E. Mittelstaedt, AUS-Ret., serving his seventh year as president of the California Public Utilities Commission, retired from that body on 1 May, having reached the mandatory retirement age of 70.

A native of San Francisco, Gen. Mittelstaedt held the rank of Major General in the California National Guard, and served as State Adjutant General under three governors. In 1940 he was ordered to prepare the Guard for Federal service, and to organize selective service for the state.

General Mittelstaedt saw combat service in two wars. He was a major in the 67th Artillery (First Army) in France during World War I. He was called to duty in the U. S. Army as a Brigadier General in 1941 and during World War II served in the Hawaiian Islands, the South Pacific and Alaska. He was Assistant Divisional Commander of the 40th Infantry Division.

He was appointed to the California Public Utilities Commission by his close friend and then Governor, Chief Justice Earl Warren, in August of 1946, and was elected president of that body in January of 1948.

Compatible color TV will eventually reach every TV home.

The rainbow you can see in black and white!

RCA brings you compatible color TV. Lets you see color programs in black and white on the set you now own!

"When a modern and practical color television system for the home is here, RCA will have it . . ."

Echoing down through the years, these words—spoken in 1946 by David Sarnoff, Chairman of the Board of RCA—have a ring of triumph today.

The day on which the FCC approved standards for the commercial broadcasting of compatible color television—December 17, 1953—will be remembered in the annals of communications along with the historic date of April 30, 1939, when RCA-NBC introduced black-and-white television as a service to the public.

At that time, sight was added to sound. Now, color has been added to sight.

Behind this great development are many long years of scientific research, hard work and financial risk. RCA scientists were engaged in research basically related to color television as far back as the 1920's . . . even before black-and-white television service was introduced.

Since then RCA has spent over $25,000,000 to add the reality of color to black-and-white TV, including development of the tri-color tube.

The fruit of this great investment is the RCA all-electronic compatible color television system, a system that provides for the telecasting of high quality color pictures that can be received in full color on color receivers; and in black and white on the set you now own.

RCA and NBC will invest an additional $15,000,000 during color television's "Introductory Year"—1954—to establish this new service on a solid foundation.

RCA color television sets are beginning to come off the production lines in small quantities. Although it will probably be another year before mass production is reached, the promise of compatible color television is being fulfilled.

WAVE Board Will Pick 15 Line Lts. For LCdr., Other Selections Will Follow

A Navy board to name WAVE Line lieutenants for promotion to lieutenant commander has convened, and the Navy announced that similar boards for the Supply and Medical Service Corps will meet on 25 May.

A Navy spokesman said 15 Line officers will be named. This will be the largest number of WAVE Line lieutenants selected for promotion since 1951 when 28 were picked. Four officers were selected last year and three the year before.

Eligible in the Line are lieutenants whose dates of rank are 7 Jan. 1950 and earlier and Staff Corps lieutenants whose running mate is selected or is senior to the Line woman officer selected by the Line board.

As of 31 March 1954 there were 320 Regular Line WAVES on active duty.

Thus 64 Regular Line officers, according to percentages established by the Women's Armed Services Integration Act, can serve as lieutenant commanders. At present there are 51.

President's Kin Joins USMC

President Eisenhower's nephew, 18 year old Michael D. Gill, this week was sworn into Thirteenth Infantry Battalion in Washington, D. C., by Maj. Harry E. Wheeler, USMC, Executive Officer of the Marine Corps Reserve ground unit.

Navy Study Will Result In Clarification Of Marine Commandant's Command Status

A source of long-standing friction between the Navy and the Marine Corps will be eliminated as a result of recommendations made by the Committee on Organization of the Navy. Steps are being taken to make crystal clear the Commandant's stature directly under the Secretary of the Navy.

Former Navy Secretary Robert B. Anderson, in a speech at Quantico, Va., last September before the graduates of Eighth Officer Candidate Course, gave his attention to the problem. At that time he stated: "In the Departmental Organization of the Navy and the Marine Corps, we have passed another sort of milestone. We have in the Revised General Order No. 5 and recent changes to Navy regulations, documented the true status of the Marine Corps within the naval organization. New organizational charts will show the Commandant of the Marine Corps as my Marine Corps assistant, reporting directly to me in all matters directly pertaining to the Marine Corps."

Apparently, the changes made in the regulations did not completely solve the problem.

The Organization Committee (THE JOURNAL 1 May) observed that it found some inconsistency between statutes having the force of law, and certain administrative orders which deal with the duties of the Chief of Naval Operations.

Under Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates told THE JOURNAL this week that revisions and corrections, now underway, will clarify the situation. He affirmed that the Marine Corps is a "unique service." He added that the Corps is not comparable to a bureau or office.

In recent years, the Marine Corps Commandant often was considered to have status similar to the various bureaus and offices within the structure of the Navy. Some high Navy officers held the view that the Marine Corps, as a limb of the Navy, and its Commandant were under the control of the Chief of Naval Operations.

The revised orders, Secretary Gates explained, will make the Commandant's position clear.

When any unit of the Marine Corps is attached to the Navy, that unit will be directly under the control of the Chief of Naval Operations. At all other times, however, the Commandant of the Marine Corps will retain the full command of the Corps with the sole responsibility for all phases of administration and training of the Corps.

Capt. Jackson Nurse Chief, Succeeds Capt. Winnie Gibson

Capt. Wilma Leona Jackson, USN, was sworn in as Director of the Navy Nurse Corps by RAdm. Ira H. Nunn, USN, Judge Advocate of the Navy, in a ceremony held at the Pentagon this week.

Capt. Jackson

She succeeds Capt. Winnie Gibson, USN, who retired 1 May after 24 years of service with the Navy Nurse Corps.

A native of Union, Montgomery County, Ohio, Captain Jackson holds BS and MA degrees from Columbia University, N. Y. She entered the Navy Nurse

Corps in 1936, and was on duty at the Naval Hospital, Guam, when the island was captured by the Japanese in December, 1941.

Exchanged among the first group of war prisoners, she returned to the United States in August, 1942. Following duty in the Navy Department, she returned to Guam to serve from January to December, 1945 as senior Nurse Corps officer in the island command.

Until recently she served as Chief Nurse, Naval Hospital, Portsmouth, Va.

VAdm. McCormick Sets Fleet Week At Newport

VAdm. Lynde D. McCormick, USN, who this week assumed duties as President of the Naval War College, Newport, R. I., has announced that the Second Annual Fleet Week for the college will be observed 17-20 May.

VAdm. McCormick

The week's program, designed to improve the liaison between the college and the officers of the fleet, will be marked by the visit of many high ranking officers of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet who will be familiarized with the courses and work of the college. These officers will be offered special tours, lectures and other presentations.

Arrangements for the celebration of Fleet Week were carried out between Admiral McCormick in his former duties as Commander in Chief, U. S. Atlantic Fleet, and RAdm. Thomas H. Robbins, Jr., USN, prior to Admiral McCormick's arrival at Newport, and were continued with Admiral Jerauld Wright, USN, who succeeded Admiral McCormick in the Fleet command in April.

Admiral Wright will hold meetings with VAdm. Frank G. Fahrion, USN, Commander, Amphibious Forces, U. S. Atlantic Fleet; RAdm. Charles C. Hartman, USN, Commander, Destroyers, U. S. Atlantic Fleet; RAdm. George C. Crawford, USN, Commander, Submarines, U. S. Atlantic Fleet, and other commanders of ships and forces which compose the U. S. Atlantic Fleet.

Admiral McCormick was welcomed to Newport by Admiral Robbins whom he succeeds and Capt. Oscar Pederson, USN, who has been serving as chief of staff.

Both officers, who are already Distinguished Shooters and therefore ineligible for further medals, were presented certificates in lieu of a medal.

In all, 55 medals and 13 certificates were presented to the participants by Maj. Gen. George F. Good, Jr., USMC, Commanding General, 2d Marine Division; Brig. Gen. Matthew C. ## Approve Plan to Revamp Thousands of Navy Promotions questing such discharge or remaining on active duty until considered for promotion by two statutory boards.

VAdm. James L. Holloway, Chief of Naval Personnel, told the Subcommittee that the Navy originally intended to put all officers temporarily promoted since July 1951 through the reselection process. This procedure, he said, "now appears undesirable and not in the best interest of the government or of the individuals concerned."

The reselection process, he noted, would prohibit those promoted under the 1941 Act from retaining "the precedence to which they are entitled by virtue of actual service in a higher grade." At the same time, it would require the retention of those twice passed over "however hopeless their career prospects may be."

Admiral Holloway said promotions under the 1941 Act were based on the principles of the Officer Personnel Act. He noted that the temporary boards "were required to fail of selection not less than a predetermined fraction of the number of officers under consideration. A reselection board would accomplish only a repetition of the same process."

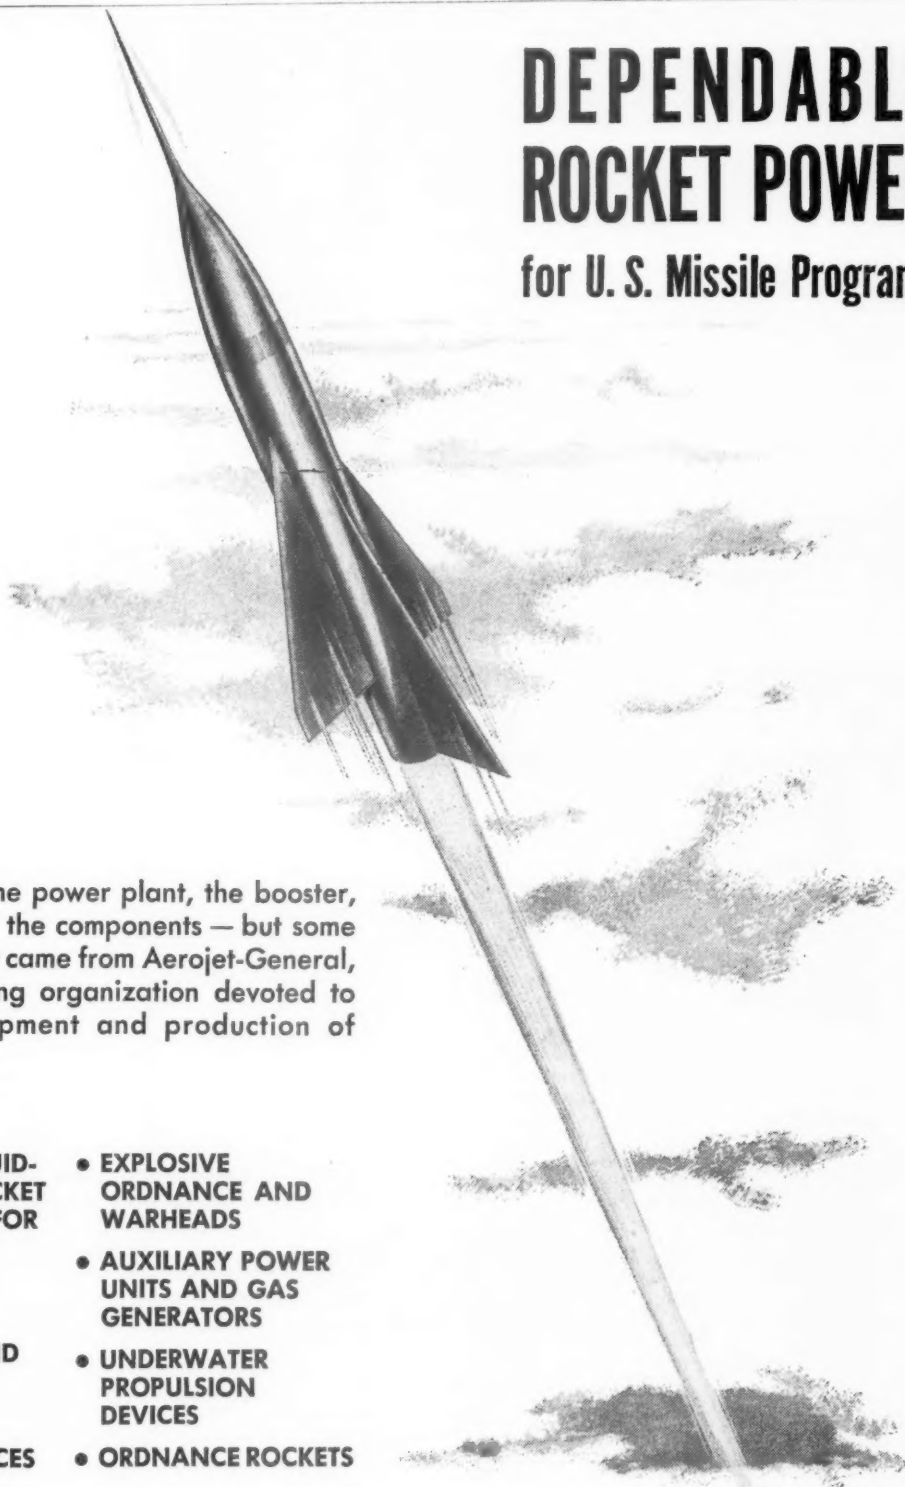

At the beginning of this year, 17,750 of the officers selected under the 1941 Act were still on active duty. "A tremendous amount of time and effort would be involved in reexamining the records of that number of officers," Admiral Holloway said, "and in making the reselections."

He testified that if the proposal is not enacted during the present session of Congress "the Navy will be forced to reselect these officers" in order that their subsequent promotion under the OPA will not be retarded or, if they have twice failed to be selected, that their separation "may not be further delayed."

The Subcommittee, headed by Representative Leslie C. Arends (R-Ill.), voted to favorably report the bill to the full Committee.

Rep. Williams Wins House Fight To Drop 100-Hr. Proficiency Flying Restriction

The 100-hour restriction on proficiency flying was lifted by the House of Representatives late last week during floor debate on the 1955 Appropriations Bill and Defense officials are hopeful the Senate will go along with this action.

Representative John B. Williams (D-Miss.) led a successful fight to remove the "handicap of the 100-hour provision." His amendment dropping the limitation was approved by a vote of 95 to 63.

Mr. Williams presented a statement from Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, President of Eastern Air Lines, in which the famed aviator offered the opinion that military flight crews "not assigned to operational combat units" would require at least 240 hours a year to maintain their flying proficiency.

The effect of the 100-hour restriction, Mr. Williams said, would be to make a large number of young, active pilots assigned to desk jobs "so rusty as to become dangerous pilots."

Strong opposition to the amendment was offered by Representative Errett P. Scrivner (R-Kan.), member of the Appropriations Committee. He said some pilots assigned to desk jobs were taking "a lot of joyrides to various parts of the country." He added that "they did a lot of things that not only were foolish but were quite expensive."

The 100-hour limitation, he said, did not "restrict training flying one single solitary minute."

Other House members disagreed. Representative Lloyd M. Bentsen, Jr. (D-Tex.) said there "is such a faint line between proficiency and training that the present language in the bill is confusing" and "should be removed."

Assistant Secretary of the Air Force H. Lee White told the Appropriations Committee that the restriction has been in effect such a short time that it has not been possible "to make a true evaluation of the long-range impact." He added, however, "We know that the restriction will in time reduce the overall experience of the pilot crops of each of the services."

Representative Williams' amendment continues to permit the Secretary of Defense to set minimum and maximum hours for proficiency flying, but eliminates that part of the section which reads: "but not to exceed one hundred hours during the fiscal year."

The present restriction, contained in the 1954 appropriations act, will continue in effect through June of this year. If the Senate approves the 1955 Appropriations Bill as passed by the House, the proficiency flying limitation will be lifted.

Col. John Lerom AF Deputy For Reserve-ROTC Affairs

Col. John Lerom, a member of the Aviation Policy Staff of the State Department, has taken over the position of Deputy for Reserve and ROTC Affairs under Air Force Assistant Secretary H. Lee White.

He succeeds Chester D. Seftenberg, who resigned in February to return to civilian occupation.

Prior to appointment in the State Department in May 1953, Mr. Lerom spent five years as Air Advisor to Peru and Panama, and in 1947 and 1948 served as executive secretary of the joint committee of the Civil Aeronautics Administration and Civil Aeronautics Board.

During WW II, he rose from the rank of first lieutenant in 1943 to colonel in 1947. Since his release from active military duty, Mr. Lerom has served as a member of the Executive Committee of the Air Reserve Association and a member of the National Air Reserve Council of the Air Force Association.

He is now a Group Commander with the 113th Fighter Wing of the Air National Guard in Washington, D. C., and has a senior pilot's rating.

AF Goes Underwater To Obtain Missiles Data

A new underwater communications system, the first leg of which has been completed, is expected to facilitate analysis of missile flight data at the Air Force Missile Test Center, Fla.

The first part of the system, stretching from Cape Canaveral, southeast through the Bahama Islands to Grand Turk Island, a distance of almost 1000 miles, follows the Air Force missile test range along the route over which guided missiles are fired.

Sixteen carrier telephone repeater stations along the route provide amplification facilities for signals transmitted over the system's 12 two-way high quality voice channels.

Bell System surveyed the initial route in 1950 at the request of the Air Force. This culminated in the acceptance of five separate contracts between Western Electric Company and the Air Force.

These contracts involved the survey of the route, the procuring of four special types of armored submarine cable, the storage and deep sea laying of this cable, the manufacturing of special carrier telephone equipment for use in tropical areas, and the installation and adjustment of the carrier equipment and the entire submarine cable communication system.

Posthumous Medal of Honor Award Goes To Bomber Pilot

The Air Force has announced posthumous award of the Medal of Honor to Capt. John S. Walmsley, jr., the first bomber pilot to win the award during the Korean War.

Captain Walmsley, a B-26 pilot, was killed 14 Sept. 1951 while flying his 25th combat mission. After disabling an enemy train, a high-priority target, Captain Walmsley discovered that he lacked further ammunition to destroy it.

He called to another bomber in the area for assistance, and then, pinpointing the target with a searchlight mounted on his plane, furnished the necessary illumination for the train to be destroyed by the second plane. However, in doing so, the plane piloted by Captain Walmsley became an easy target. It was struck by flak and crashed into the surrounding mountains.

Captain Walmsley received his commission and pilot's rating upon graduation from flying school in November 1943. His other awards include the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with one Oak Leaf Cluster.

The Air Force previously had announced award of the Medal of Honor to three other officers.

Maj. Charles J. Loring, jr., who was killed near Sniper Ridge in the fall of 1952, was cited for deliberately crashing his disabled plane into a nest of enemy artillery pieces, and destroying them at the price of his own life. His death occurred on his 51st combat mission in Korea while leading a flight of four F-80's. Major Loring was a veteran of WW II and was a prisoner of war during that conflict.

HIGHEST SCORING PILOT in the recently completed Eastern Air Defense Force air-to-air rocketry meet at Otis AFB, Mass., was Capt. Howard A. Nelson, a member of the 4706th Defense Wing rocketry team, whose home station is O'Hare International Airport, Chicago, Ill. He is a veteran of 100 missions flying F-51 fighter-bombers during the Korean conflict. The rocketry meet in which the captain won individual high point honors was won by the 4708th Defense Wing of Selfridge AFB, Mich. The 4708th will represent the Eastern Air Defense Force in the U. S. Air Force air-to-air rocketry meet, the first in U. S. Air Force history, to be held at Yuma AFB, Yuma, Ariz., in June.

ing, during which he flew 266 combat missions, was killed 10 Feb. 1952 while flying his 60th mission in Korea. After destroying two enemy ships in a formation of 12 MiG's, Colonel Davis sacrificed the superior speed which would have permitted him to evade the concentrated fire of the enemy and, slowing his plane by the use of dive brakes, pressed the attack against a third MiG. During the attack, his F-86 was hit and crashed out of control.

Maj. Louis J. Seville, killed near Hamchang in the summer of 1950, was cited for his bravery in flying an F-51 Mustang fighter plane during an attack on a concentration of enemy troops, artillery and armored vehicles. After suffering damage to his aircraft, Major Seville refused to abandon his plane or attempt to return to friendly lines. Despite the difficulty of maneuvering his disabled plane, Major Seville continued to inflict severe damage on the enemy. He was last seen as his plane dove, all guns blazing, toward a group of armored vehicles. The aircraft disintegrated upon impact in the target area.

Sec'y. Talbott Wages Good Fight. All of the Services admire the persistence with which Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbott has been carrying on the fight for a pay increase for military personnel. At a time when virtually all administrative leaders, except the redoubtable Assistant Secretary of Defense John A. Hannah, have ceased stressing the need for pay improvement, Mr. Talbott continues to carry on.

Furthermore, the Air Secretary has the facts and figures that make his arguments appealing. For example, he reported to the Secretary of Defense that the government could save $100,000,000 annually by a 10 per cent increase in Air Force enlistments and added that a pay raise would contribute to such a boost in reenlistments. In a subsequent address, Mr. Talbott proclaimed that current dissatisfaction among Service personnel "comes from the fact that they believe their pay is not up to the standards of commerce and industry." With another increase for government civilian employees in the offing, it is hard to brush off this argument.

That the administration has not encouraged a pay increase for its fighting services probably accounts for the slacking off of interest in other quarters. It also makes Secretary Talbott's persistence the more admirable.

Red Navy Build-Up. That the Russians are neglecting no factors in building up their national war machine is apparent from the information released this week through the series of articles, "Soviet Sea Power," written by two navy veterans, William H. Gregory and Donald D. Jones, and distributed to daily newspapers throughout the United States by the North American Newspaper Alliance.

The enormity and crushing power of the Red Army has long been known. In recent years it has likewise become known that their Air Force has been developed not only in numbers but in quality (witness the MiG-15) far beyond that which we had previously believed. We now know, too, that in the field of nuclear physics her progress surpassed that which our experts had thought possible.

Now, hitherto unrevealed data have been released through the new series of articles showing that the Red Navy, which ten years ago was a poor seventh among the world's fleets, is now second only to the United States in total tonnage and actually exceeds ours, in the number of war vessels. In submarines alone, the Russians are reported to have 350 ready to go (not moth-balled)—six or seven times as many U-boats as the Germans had at the beginning of World War II. Even in surface vessels her new cruisers are rated as faster than ours and possessed of many new and valuable features.

It is well that these facts should, as advocated by Admiral Robert B. Carney, Chief of Naval Operations, be given to the American people so that they will be aware of "the growing interest of the Soviet Union in maritime matters and their determined effort to challenge the Allied Supremacy on the high seas."

Deserved Rank. The Senate has taken renewed initiative in a movement to award belated but deserved rank to nine Army lieutenant generals whose commands in World War II would normally have entitled them to the rank of general.

The measure was reported by the Senate Committee in the 82d Congress, passed by the Senate, but the House adjourned before acting upon it. The bill authorizes the President to appoint to the grade of general, AUS, those officers who during World War II, commanded the Army Ground Forces, an Army, or Army Forces which included

Seek Lt. Nystrom

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Lt. John W. Nystrom, O 970 527, Artillery Advisor to the 11th ROK F. A. Battalion, 3rd ROK Division, reported missing in action on 18 May 1951. He was advising elements of the 3d Division Republic of Korea Army when the unit was halted by an enemy roadblock on 18 May 1951 about one mile south of Hyon-ni, South Korea. When the advisory personnel was able to make a head count, about one and one-half hours later, Lt. Nystrom was among those not present.

On 10 Sept. 1953 we were advised by the Department of the Army that his name had been included in a list of Servicemen believed to have been at one time in Communist custody but as yet unaccounted for by the Communists.

In a letter dated 19 Feb. 1954 from Department of the Army they state that "In view of the lapse of time without information to support a continued presumption of survival, the Department of the Army must terminate such absence and accordingly an official finding of death has been recorded." Anyone having personal knowledge of Lt. Nystrom after 18 May 1951, please correspond with the undersigned.

MRS. MARY NYSTROM,

The Green (?) Uniform

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Today I saw the Army-Green (so called) uniform for the first time and it's simply hideous! There's nothing green about it. Somebody must be color-blind and it's not me. The thing is more nearly the color of wet asphalt than any hue I know of. How could so many people demonstrate such poor taste with over 30 colors to select from?

I wish to goodness I had been in on the choosing. Nobody but nobody would have sounded out more loudly in condemnation of a uniform shade resembling moist mineral pitch.

Aside from the revolting color it is, the uniform looks dirty and faded both in the hand and at 20 paces. The fabric is nappy and definitely not of a rich-looking texture. And on top of all this, they slap on the officer's hat and sleeves a gold braid that would appear chic on navy blue but tacky on material dyed to look like a rain-drenched, macadamized surface.

Why can't the green for the Army be something analogous to that worn by the U. S. Army Band at Ft. Myer, if it must be green. Now there's a sharp, impressive-looking uniform anybody should be proud to wear.

It all seems to be pretty much cut and dried, but maybe even yet Conropean theater; and Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, USA-Ret., U. S. Army Forces, Pacific Ocean areas.

So often in turmoil of war the administrative machinery does not move fast enough to give commensurate rank to those who have earned it. Since World War II events have moved so swiftly that these deserving commanders still have not attained the honored rank they should have.

We hope that the Senate and House will complete the legislative steps necessary to make these well earned advancements.

IN THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago—Very strong forces of B-17 Flying Fortresses and B-24 Liberators of the Eighth Air Force successfully attacked military and industrial targets in Berlin to-day. Our bombers encountered heavy clouds along their route, although most of our formations found holes in the clouds over Berlin and bombed their targets visually. Enemy fighter opposition was determined and there were many heavy air battles between our aircraft and the enemy.

50 Years Ago—For those nervous patriots who delight in conjuring up the grotesque bugaboo of "militarism" and bemoaning the burden it imposes upon the American taxpayer, there is food for reflection in a comparative statement of the cost of national government in the leading countries of the world as published by the Bureau of Statistics of the U. S. Treasury. According to this statement, such costs in 1903 were: United Kingdom, $21.39 per capita of population; France, $17.84; Austria-Hungary, $14.27; Netherlands, $11.49; Germany, $9.45; Sweden, $9.54. The figures for Russia are not given. The United States with all its colossal projects, made a per capita expenditure of only $7.97, the lowest rate of any nation in the world.

90 Years Ago—Among the petitions presented to Congress during the past week is one from the Commanders and Lieutenant Commanders of the Navy, who call the attention of the Honorable Senate to the hardship to which they are subjected by the operation of the present law regulating the higher grades of the service. While our Navy has increased three-fold in men and material, the grades of Captain and Commander have been reduced, the former from 97 to 72, and the latter from 65 to 36. As a consequence, our active and ambitious Commanders and Lieutenant Commanders find their prospects of promotion actually decreased at a time when their labors and responsibilities have largely increased.

gress will somehow save us from bilious Army-Green.

CAPTAIN, SIGNAL CORPS

Medical Care Problem Raised

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Reference the new proposed medical care plan for dependents, it seems to me that this or a similar bill should include same benefits for the military persons themselves where no Service facilities are available, whether because of location or because of restrictions by local facilities of other services particularly.

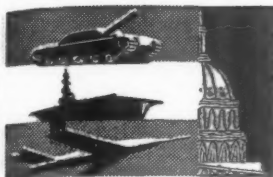

Locally, there is a Veterans Hospital which is available to me only in an emergency. There is a station of another Service which will only take for treatment personnel of their own Service.

If benefits are not included for military personnel themselves, a peculiar situation will arise by which dependents can receive attention, but not the military persons involved, especially when retired for length of service only.

As it is, military persons retired for length of service are out of luck unless they live in certain regions where full facilities happen to be available belonging to the particular service they came from.

This seems extremely unfair.

defense ON CAPITOL HILL

BEHIND THE SCENES details of what went on during the preparation of the now-famous "Memorandum of Understanding" between Army Secretary Stevens and the Republican members of the Senate Permanent Investigating Subcommittee, were disclosed during the Army-McCarthy hearings this week. Mr. Stevens said "a lot of things" he suggested were not included. He said when it became apparent from newspaper accounts that he was believed to have capitulated, he felt compelled to re-state a principle which he had not surrendered, namely that "Army witnesses, whether in or out of uniform, would not be abused by you [Senator McCarthy] in the future." Said the Army Secretary, "I was disturbed that there wasn't more in that statement."

A SPECIAL GOLD STAR, in honor of members of the Armed Forces who died in the service of their country, would be added to "Old Glory" under the terms of a bill introduced by Representative Radwan (R-N. Y.). The gold star would be in addition to those representing the States and would be added to the flag when the union is designed upon the admission of the first new State.

CREATION of an Assistant Secretary of Defense for Continental Defense is asked by Representative Cole (R-N. Y.). His bill amends the National Security Act so as to provide for "four Assistant Secretaries of Defense." However, there already are nine assistant secretaries (appointed under the terms of the President's Defense Reorganization Act) and a tenth (an AsstSecDef for Reserve Forces) has been proposed in another bill, so that there would be a total of 11 if both measures are passed.

OPERATION FLASH BURN was criticized on the floor of the House by Representative Wheeler (D-Ga.), who ran into opposition when he charged "millions of dollars" were wasted by "American boys with popguns playing hide and seek through the hills of North Carolina using tactics that would have been fine in WWI or II." Representative Bennett (D-Fla.) said "it would be a mistake for people to believe that Congress feels that these current maneuvers in North Carolina are not needed." He said he would gladly give his life "to make it true that the infantry soldier is no longer needed. Unfortunately that is not true." Representative Smith (D-Miss.) added, "I would like to make it clear that a large portion of the Congress do not regard the maneuvers for ground troops as a waste of the people's money; in fact, they are vitally necessary for the defense of the Nation."

RECONSTRUCTED FORT NECESSITY, Pa., will be dedicated by the National Park Service during the period 3-4 July with possible participation by the Armed Services. Senator Martin (R-Pa.) has asked for creation of a Joint Committee (six Senate members, six House members and six Presidential members) to represent the U. S. at the ceremonies which will be attended by representatives of the British, French and Canadian Governments. The Committee, when appointed, would arrange for participation by the military.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, a 22-year-old colonel when he led the Colonial forces in the Battle of Fort Mifflin, would be elevated in rank by a separate bill presented by Senator Martin. Previously, Representative McCormick (D-Mass.) asked that General Washington be promoted to General of the Army, but Senator Martin's proposal would give him still higher rank: General of the Armies. This, in effect, would place General Washington at the top of the list of Army officers, above General of the Armies John J. Pershing, the only officer to hold that rank. "There could be no more auspicious occasion to recognize the proper rank of George Washington," Senator Martin says, than the coming celebration at Fort Mifflin.

THE DUAL STAFFING REPORT made recently by the Comptroller General has been assigned to a House Post Office and Civil Service Subcommittee "for prompt and thorough investigation," Chairman Edward H. Rees (R-Kans.) disclosed. He said "Where you have a military officer and a civilian sitting side by side on a job with work for only one, one can be assigned elsewhere where his work will be more useful, without harming the efficiency of any of the operations." He said resultant savings would be "particularly important" in view of the reductions ($1,206,348,500) made in the 1955 Defense budget.

BETTER OPPORTUNITIES to vote are provided for military personnel in legislation proposed by Representative LeCompte (R-Iowa). Among other things, the measure would exempt members of the Armed Services, during time of war, from paying poll tax or any other tax in order to vote for President, Vice President, electors for those two offices, or for Senator or Member of the House of Representatives.

Income Tax Regulation

The Army has issued a new regulation covering income tax withheld from military pay. It is designated AR 35-1810, 30 March.

Senate Chairman Asks Permanent Law For Information & Education Program

Permanent I&E legislation was introduced this week by Chairman Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

At the present time, Information and Education programs in the Armed Services are conducted with authority granted in annual appropriation legislation, but in the absence of formal authorization legislation.

The Senator's bill (S. 3401) authorizes the military departments to use appropriated funds to provide for:

- 1-Radio and TV programs
- 2-Newspapers and other publications
- 3-Motion pictures, and
- 4-Educational instruction.

Radio and TV programs would be limited to overseas areas or "isolated posts, camps and stations in the United States." The measure provides, however, that short wave programs "may be broadcast from the United States if beamed to overseas areas."

Educational opportunities offered by the bill would include correspondence courses either operated or sponsored by the Services and instruction offered locally by accredited civilian institutions. The Government would defray up to 75 per cent of the tuition fees charged by the civilian schools.

Purpose of the legislation is to raise the educational level of military personnel "in the interest of the military preparedness and security of the Nation."

Funds for newspapers, pamphlets, motion pictures and other informational facilities also would be provided by the bill but details covering this aspect of the program are not outlined.

Success Is Not Always Guaranteed—

COMMENT ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS

THE principal complaint which Secretary Dulles is encountering is over the undeniable fact that he failed to bring home the bacon without delay from Geneva; the other complaints which are generally voiced are, mainly, tributary to that, or afterthoughts. What few of the critics have thought of recognizing is that, from the outset, the Geneva meeting offered us extremely few chances of full success in the first round. Neither Russia nor China would have dreamed of going to the conference at all save with their own expectation of a Red victory and a determination, at any cost, to block an American victory. Mr. Dulles' immense task was to put up a vigorous fight in support of the basic policy upon which the Administration had settled, and to set the American standard on high ground. He did not guarantee victory, and certainly he did not get it in the first try. The rest of us in our long history have made a number of fights which likewise offered small promise of immediate victory, but which still were worth the making, and which in the long view were found to be justified on that basis. The thing to bear in mind—if that provides the bruised Secretary of State with any comfort—is that if he had not put up a bold fight for this very principle, he would have been reproached much more loudly, and would have deserved it.

NO INDIVIDUAL enjoys losing even one round, nor does any nation. But Americans, still a young and overconfident nation, appear to suffer more acutely than other peoples when we suffer a setback. We are not conditioned to adversity nor ready to accept any of its reputedly sweet uses, until we first have uttered cries of bitter anguish. Unfortunately it would not have been tactically sound for a diplomat on the eve of a new mission to remind his countrymen in a public statement that he might easily be on the way to a temporary defeat. We have to learn that bad news only after the fact, apparently, and then it is our custom to look around for the right man to blame. Old generals and admirals ought to feel a comradeship with a diplomat in adversity. They are in the habit of hearing that they are to blame for unready forces or inadequate equipment which are, respectively, unready or inadequate because the armed services were suddenly given a mission too large for their powers. There is a suggestive parallel here.

UNITED ACTION on the part of anti-communist nations, in Asia as in Europe, was the aim of President Eisenhower and his Secretary of State. It still is, and it will so continue. It would have been pleasant to have that fact recognized by our allies before Geneva, and approved by them to the point of joining immediately in a Southeast Asia commitment as firm as that which the North Atlantic Treaty nations entered into years before they were able to implement the pact effectively. It would be pleasant, too, for American sentiment (and particularly Congressional sentiment) to become harmonized on that issue, for the policy is one which must be enunciated and supported for years to come. A dismal aspect of this past fortnight's temporary rebuff, by allies who are bound to us on a permanent basis by their interests as well as ours, is that the American public is quick to take offense and, in its impatience, to respond angrily and unwisely, and on impulse to take an unconditional position from which it is hard to withdraw gracefully when conditions change. Some hasty thoughts have been uttered this past week, for example, on the subject of future relations with Red China; "never" is a long time, and within a fairly short time we may find with regard to Red China, as with regard to Germany and Japan, that our own interests call for a reappraisal of conditions and a reorienting of policy. There are few programs which call for total and permanent inflexibility.

An illustration of this was offered at midweek, when Mr. Dulles returned to Washington for a discussion of the situation with the President. By the time he reached here it became apparent that the first guesses of his critics had been overhasty, discreet dispatches from London indicating that the only difference between Britain and America on the united action policy had been on the timing and the loudness of the announcement. That is, Britain recognizes fully the need for united action, but not unnaturally thinks it is something to be arranged in the council chamber rather than on the broadcasting bands. There is no doubt that we have been hurt by the techniques which were employed, particularly in the matter of telegraphing our intentions to our opponents at Geneva. Open covenants can be arrived at too openly, particularly when they are directed against crafty foes who say nothing whatever about their plans until they have become implemented. That is the criticism which could with propriety have been made, but the more voluble critics were hardly in a position to make it. The Geneva discussions are not over yet, and there is little doubt that they will produce more bad news for us. But the news will not be wholly bad, and if when they are over we can proceed calmly with Britain and the Commonwealth nations as our most reliable allies in the building up of a community enterprise in Southeast Asia, that part of the news will be very good indeed. The project, like NATO, will call for a great deal of patience, for a first essential to such a compact is Southeast Asia's own active desire for defense from communism, comparable to that passionate desire which the ROKs have shown from the outset. It is not a political achievement of a moment, it will take time and will require patience and industry and good sense on our part.

MARSHAL JUIN, publicly rebuked by the NATO Council for his outspoken criticism last March of European Defense Community plans which NATO supports, and in the bad graces of his own government for his brusque treatment of the Premier, nevertheless will hold his important position as Commander-in-Chief Central Sector. An official statement is that hereafter the marshal "will do nothing that might be contrary to the policies and desires of NATO." It may be presumed that he is restored to the good graces of France as well. Retention of this distinguished soldier in the field command of first importance in General Gruenther's forces is a cause of relief for, serious as was his indiscretion, he is not the first brilliant field commander of our acquaintance to have talked too loud at the wrong time and on the wrong subject—and to be kept on his job nevertheless.

YUGOSLAVIA'S policies continue to worry the neighbors. That nation's undiluted communism, regardless of anti-Russianism, has for years prevented full acceptance in the western family. And its intransigence with regard to Trieste now hampers full acceptance of the pending alliance of Yugoslavia with Greece and Turkey. Turkey itself is anxious to complete the compact with Tito, but is

For Journal Readers*

THE CURRENT HOUSING PROBE, centering around construction with Government-guaranteed mortgages, will be expanded to include the thousands of Wherry Housing units built for Service families, Capitol sources said this week. Senator Byrd (D-Va.), who is spark-plugging the inquiry, is known to have received numerous letters from members of the Armed Forces complaining of high rental costs in a number of Wherry developments. Charges of poor workmanship also are reported to be on file.

SENATOR BYRD, who is a ranking member of the Armed Services Committee, has asked for detailed information concerning Wherry projects from Federal housing officials. It is conceivable that his investigation will show that in some cases "windfall" profits—meaning higher rentals also—are involved in the military family housing program, as well as in construction of apartment units for civilians.

DEPUTY DEFENSE SECRETARY Anderson will become Acting Secretary less than two weeks after taking office. He'll fill the top job while Sec'y Wilson is on an inspection trip to the Far East.

ASST. SEC'Y H. LEE WHITE, the Air Force's manpower chief, is slated to leave the Pentagon on or about 1 July. He has also handled budget matters.

ADDITIONAL FUNDS for education of Service children will be asked in the Senate. The Pentagon feels that the $225 ceiling voted by the House is too low and works inequities in some areas, where school costs are high.

—3—

A COMMISSARY RECLAMA is being prepared at the Pentagon for presentation to the Senate Armed Services Committee. Defense officials would be highly pleased if Congress were to knock out completely the rider affecting commissary operations.

STILL ON PROBATION STATUS it is pointed out are the 30-odd commissaries in metropolitan areas, which are being kept under continual study by the Defense Dept. in accordance with a requirement in the Appropriations Act.

TOP GOAL of those working on the military morale problem is complete elimination of the commissary rider, including the requirement for a surcharge. Achievement of such an objective would reduce the grocery bill for Service families by 3% per cent in the U.S.

BEST GUESS is that complete elimination of the rider will not be achieved. Nonetheless, on the basis of sympathetic reception at the Capitol of "career attractiveness" proposals, top authorities at the Pentagon think that now is the time to make a strong try. This effort will be made in the Senate.

SECRETARIES OF THE NAVY were in plentiful supply this week during an informal reception in Defense Sec'y Wilson's office. Guests included former Secretaries John L. Sullivan, Dan Kimball and Robert B. Anderson, who had just been sworn in as Deputy Defense Sec'y, and Charles S. Thomas, newly elevated to the job.

ALTHOUGH PLEASED with the increase in the household goods transportation allowance from 9,000 to 11,000 pounds, voted by the House, the Defense Dept. believes that military families should be given additional relief. Comparison is made with the considerably higher allowances for Foreign Service personnel. As a consequence, there's a good chance the Senate Appropriations Committee will be asked to boost the 11,000 pound ceiling.

TIED TO THIS will be a pledge from Defense spokesmen that everything possible will be done to cut down on travel. Studies are now being made into the matter of sharply reducing changes in assignment. The House Appropriations Committee had much to say on this subject.

GENERAL RIDGWAY has said that the average Army officer receives a permanent change of assignment every 18 months; for enlisted men, the average is 10 months.

ASSIGNMENT STABILITY will receive increasing stress in the Armed Forces (1) because it builds morale and (2) because the Appropriations Committees are urging improvement and are backing it up by cutting budget requests for travel expenses. Latest development is decision by U.S. Army Europe to permit many soldiers in top three grades with 20 years or more service to extend foreign service tours indefinitely. The Air Force previously had given authority for extension of many overseas tours.

STRONG SALES COMPETITION for young men with top mental and physical qualifications is foreseen after 1 July when Army and Air Force recruiters go on an individual service, rather than joint, basis. The Air Force will open on 17 May at Lackland AFB, Tex., a special school for recruiters, with Lt. Col. Marvin Alexander, a one-time Infantry private, as commanding officer. The 8-week course will include courses in salesmanship and sales management.

THE AIR FORCE IS CONFIDENT that with the separate set-up it will be able to recruit the scores of thousands of young airmen necessary to maintain strength during the coming year. There is some concern that to meet the numerical requirement, the Air Force may find it necessary to sign up more men in the lower Categories (III and IV) than desirable. This has been true during recent months.

CONTINUING FREEZE on Army promotions to master sergeant because of the overage in this rank has Defense officials concerned. The problem is now under study, but thus far no specific recommendations have been made.

STILL UNDER STUDY also is how the Army and Air Force will award contract tours to thousands of Reserve officers. Good guess now is that no definitive action will be taken until the report on the Reserve Forces structure—expected next week—is analyzed in considerable detail.

EXPAND OFF-DUTY "ALL-RANK" I&E AID

Reversing a trend of recent years, the House Appropriations Committee has recommended an expanded program of off-duty education aid to all members of the Armed Forces, regardless of rank.

The Committee said that tuition assistance up to 75 per cent of costs should be given to all enlisted men, warrant officers and officers. However, it was stipulated that commissioned personnel must agree to serve on active duty for two years after the completion of such training. The Committee report stressed that "no limitations on eligibility related to rank are imposed."

The action followed testimony by Defense officials, who pointed out that in many instances the percentage of officers holding college degrees in the field grades was less than in company grades. The testimony brought out that older officers, with heavier family responsibilities, were often unable to pay complete tuition expenses without considerable hardship.

At the Pentagon, Information and Education officials said that the House Committee action, if voted by Congress, would stimulate interest in off-duty education throughout the Services.

Plan Examination Cut As Navy Sets New Course

The Bureau of Supplies and Accounts will establish a course in "Supply Management" pointed primarily at the level of Commander and Captain.

The course will be given in resident form at the Navy Supply School, Athens, Ga., through the Correspondence Course Center, Brooklyn, N. Y. and will be made available to inactive officers in resident form in the various Naval Reserve Officers Schools.

The Navy plans that this course will be used to provide an area of exemption from examination for promotion to the grades of Commander and Captain, if promotion exams are reestablished.

BuSanda officials expect that the course will be instituted no later than January 1955.

Honor Miami U. President

The president of Miami University, Dr. John D. Millett, traded cap and gown for a jet pilot's helmet and flying suit to take part in a ceremony last week at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio.

Arrayed in his new costume, he accepted a plaque making him an honorary member of the 97th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron. The educator, an Army reserve colonel, took a tour of the base and the headquarters of the 97th "because I'd heard so much about it from my Air Force ROTC cadets."

Maj. Stevens H. Turner, commander of the squadron, made the presentation. Col. Ernest White, director of the Air Force ROTC at Miami, and Dr. C. W. Kreger, vice president of the school, accompanied Dr. Millett. General Edwin W. Rawlings, commander, Air Materiel Command, attended the ceremony.

Cadets To Visit Bliss

The U. S. Military Academy's First Class, composed of 480 cadets just entering their senior year, will visit Ft. Bliss, Tex., 19-23 June.

During this period, they will receive intensive instruction in antiaircraft artillery and orientation in guided missiles.

Col. Roy K. Kauffman has been named project officer for the visit of the cadets. He will be assisted by Lt. Col. G. P. Elliott and Lt. Col. F. L. Martz.

General Smith has been picked for duty with the top-level National Security Council.

Brig. Gen. John W. Persons, USAF, will be reassigned in June from duty as Deputy Director, Personnel Processing and Training, DCS/P, Washington, D. C., to be commander of the 3510th Flying Training Wing of the Air Training Command at Randolph AFB, Tex.

San Antonio AMA Wins Nelson S. Talbott Award

The Nelson S. Talbott Memorial Award for top procurement and production among the Air Materiel Command's eight Air Materiel Areas has been awarded to the San Antonio AMA, Tex.

The San Antonio arm of the AMC also was presented the Merrill C. Meigs Trophy for the highest performance for all functions among the AMA's. The Reed-King Trophy for outstanding performance among AMC's seven depots was awarded to Mallory Air Force Depot, Tenn.

The awards were for accomplishments in the three months ending 28 Feb. The Talbott award is donated by Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott in memory of his late brother, Brigadier General Talbott. The Meigs Trophy is named for its donor, a Chicago publishing executive and aviation pioneer, and the Reed-King Trophy is named for its donors, industrialists H. O. King and Gordon W. Reed, both of whom were associated with the Defense Production Administration during WW II.

Comment on Foreign Affairs

aware of NATO dislike for a treaty, on the part of two important NATO powers, with a nation which is undisputedly at odds with an existing NATO nation, Italy. But Turkey, entirely agreeable to informing the western group of the exact terms of its compact with Tito, is unwilling to admit the necessity for active approval of all NATO nations, including Italy. The issue cannot remain undecided indefinitely, for the proposed Balkan treaty is scheduled for active consideration in July.

PAKISTAN, it is agreeable to note, has replied calmly (and in the negative) to a Russian formal protest against the acceptance of American military aid. The Russian assumption was that mutual aid means foreign command of the Pakistani army and foreign bases on Pakistani soil, as well as creation of "a military bloc directed against the Soviet Union and the peaceful countries of Asia" which "cannot but harm Soviet-Pakistani relations." Pakistan, rejecting the protest, stated that Moscow had drawn an unjustified conclusion.

GENERAL J. LAWTON COLLINS, presently in London for consultation with NATO's Channel Command, will be in Oslo at the Northern Sector headquarters next week. His trip, designed to take in the northern tier of NATO countries (he did the southern tier last January) has included the CPX in Paris as well as SHAPE, and protocol visits at Copenhagen, The Hague, Brussels and Luxembourg. Not wholly by accident it has included points which General Collins saw when he was VII Corps commander. He will return to his Standing Group duties in Washington shortly after attending the 6 June anniversary celebration at the Normandy beaches.

HR 8968, Rep. Deane (D.-N.Y.), authorizes Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force to acquire quarters for military personnel and their dependents by lease or purchase.

HR 8972, Rep. Radwan (R.-N.Y.), provides that a special gold star be added to the flag of the United States in honor of members of the Armed Forces who died in the service of their country.

HJRes 512, Rep. Bennett (R.-Mich.), makes it unlawful, without the consent of Congress, to send or maintain U. S. military forces to fight in Indochina.

Senate

S 3401, Sen. Saltonstall (R.-Mass.), authorizes furnishing of information, radio and TV entertainment and civilian education for personnel of the Armed Forces.

S 3346, Sen. Goldwater (R.-Ariz.), extends benefits of FECA to certain members of the Reserve components of the Army and Air Force.

S 3363, Sen. Saltonstall (R.-Mass.), provides medical care for dependents of members of the Armed Forces.

S 3374, Sen. Martin (R.-Pa.), authorizes President to issue a posthumous commission as General of the Armies to George Washington.

New "Lift" for Navy Jets

Can Carry 1 1/2 More Tons

A new system for increasing the lifting capacity of jet planes which permits them to carry a ton and a half more armament and land at slower speeds has been developed by the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics.

The system which controls the flow of the "boundary layer" air over the wing, has been installed on a Grumman F9F-4 Panther now undergoing tests aboard the carrier USS Bennington.

In operation, the new simplified system bleeds air from the jet engine through holes in the duct and forces it out at high speeds over the trailing edge of the wing. This tends to reduce turbulence in that area by making the normal flow of air hug the wing skin rather than "burbles" when the plane is at slow or near stalling speeds.

Tested earlier at the Naval Air Test Center, Patuxent River, Md., the new system increased the bomb or rocket-carrying capacity of an F9F test plane by 3,000-pounds and allowed a landing of 20 knots slower than normal.

The slower landing speed is of particular importance to carrier-based jets and, eventually, may be applied to most jet planes.

Mr. John S. Antinello, an aeronautical engineer in the BuAer, who perfected the system, has been cited by the Navy for his work on this "especially significant technological advancement in naval aviation." He received the Navy's Meritorious Civilian Service Award from RADM. Apollo Soucek, USN, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

"GREETINGS!"

The Army, which in its day has sent "Greetings" to millions, now at last has engaged an expert on the problem.

He is Charles S. Stevenson of Kansas City, Mo., newly designated as a Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army.

Mr. Stevenson, a WW I veteran of the 89th Division, is vice president of Hall Brothers, Inc. That's the firm which specializes in greeting cards.

Civilian Aides function on a non-paid basis as field representatives interpreting Army policies affecting civilians, and in turn provide the Secretary with a guide to public opinion on military programs.

Pentagon Asks Budget to Reduce Charges

the quarters to which they are assigned.

Although complete information was not available at the Pentagon about the new housing plan, Representative Bob Wilson (R-Calif) of the Armed Services Committee confirmed the fact that such legislation has been prepared. He said he understands that Assistant Secretaries of Defense John A. Hannah (Manpower and Personnel) and Franklin G. Floete (Properties and Installations) "have this week sent recommended legislation to the Bureau of the Budget intended to correct the inequities of full deduction of quarters allowances for substandard quarters."

Explaining the Service housing problems to his colleagues in the House of Representatives, Mr. Wilson said, "The Government practices a peculiar policy of double standards in assessing rental charges for military personnel."

"In many of the Government housing projects near military bases, the rents chargeable to servicemen have been raised by order of the Comptroller General on a basis of comparability with rents for similar houses in the area. In cases such as this, the serviceman has a quarters allowance, part of which he uses to pay the rent. This rent increase naturally hits him directly and is another out-of-pocket expense."

"At the same time," he added, "the services have a considerable number of quarters of varying quality on the military bases which are arbitrarily assigned to certain service families, both officers and enlisted men. When they are assigned to these quarters—many of which are pitifully substandard—they lose their full quarters allowances, regardless of comparability of their quarters with quarters obtainable outside."

Mr. Wilson said it seems to him that "the policy of comparability should be at least consistent."

He indicated that the situation will be corrected during the present session of Congress "as another step forward in the program of career improvement of the military services."

A bill was introduced a year ago last January by Rep. Charles Bennett (D-Fla.) which would authorize the Government to forego the collection of full quarters allowance when quarters are determined to be "inadequate" or "sub-standard." The measure was sent to both the Defense Department and the Comptroller General for report. To date, the Defense Department has made no report and the Comptroller General returned an unfavorable ruling.

N. Y. QM Pur. Agency Will Move To Phila. Depot

Brig. Gen. R. P. Hollis, commanding general of the New York Quartermaster Purchasing Agency, has announced that the Agency will be relocated in the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot as soon as physical arrangements are possible.

The move is in conformity with Defense Department policy of utilizing Government-owned space to the maximum, and is expected to result in recurring savings estimated to be more than $700,000 annually.

The transfer will also bring together the purchasing, government furnished property, and inspection activities now conducted in New York with the closely-related acceptance-testing and pilot manufacturing functions already housed at the Philadelphia Depot.

The Agency presently employs 63 military and 987 civilian personnel. Consolidation of administrative and other activities at a single location in Philadelphia will make possible the reduction of 13 military and 114 civilian personnel for this operation at a total annual payroll savings estimated to be more than $700,000 of the need for leased quarters in New York will save approximately $130,000 annually.

Donald Jackson AF Deputy For Materiel Programs

Donald R. Jackson will take over 15 May as Deputy for Materiel Programs under Roger Lewis, Air Force Assistant Secretary for Materiel.

He replaces Myron Tracy, who left the Air Force 1 May for civilian employment.

Mr. Jackson presently is Chief of the Procurement and Research Division under the Deputy Chief of Staff, Comptroller, where his responsibilities include preparation of budget estimates and administration of appropriations covering all major procurement and research and development.

Mr. Jackson was brought into the Air Force from the War Assets Administration in 1948 to assist in establishing the Air Force appropriation structure and related budget procedure. Prior to his work with the WAA, he was engaged in his own business and had previously served with the Federal Public Housing Authority. Mr. Jackson entered the Navy as a cadet pilot in 1941.

Navy Buys 2 Ferry Boats For Use By Army TC

The Navy has let a contract for the construction of two 180-foot steel ferry boats.

The award was made to the John H. Mathis Co., Camden, N. J., the lowest of 13 bidders. The contract price is $1,599,574.60.

The boats are for the use of the Office of Transportation, Army Department, and are being procured by the Navy's Bureau of Ships.

Joins S. F. Ordnance Dist.

Assignment of Lt. Col. Charles L. P. Medinnis as Executive and Operations Officer of the San Francisco Ordnance District is announced by Col. John M. Stark, Deputy Chief of the District.

Prior to reporting to the District, Colonel Medinnis served sixteen months with the U. S. Armed Forces Far East. He was Deputy Ordnance Officer of the Korean Base Section in Korea for almost a year and later of the Communications Zone, Headquarters, Korea.

Moth-Ball 131st Ship

The MSTs has arranged with the Maritime Administration to return the Gopher Mariner to the National Defense Fleet.

The Gopher Mariner will be the 131st General Agency Agreement ship inactivated by MSTs during the past 10 months.

Jet Tanker-Transport Set For Flight Test in June

Production will be completed this month on the first Boeing jet tanker-transport airplane. The maiden flight of the new-type transport ship is scheduled for June.

The 190,000-pound swept-wing transport is being built as a test and demonstrator model for two potential production versions. These are a military tanker-transport to be known as the Jet Stratotanker, and a commercial airliner which will carry the name, Jet Stratoliner.

The new aircraft was financed by the company at a cost of approximately $15-million.

Details of the craft will continue to be classified, but Boeing has made public some general specifications and performance figures.

Wingspan of the prototype measures 130 feet and the overall length is 128 feet. Power is derived from four Pratt & Whitney Aircraft JT3-L engines, each rated in the 10,000 pounds of thrust class, suspended in pods from the swept-back wing which will give the airplane a cruising speed in the 550-miles-per-hour class at operational altitudes between 30,000 and 40,000 feet.

Gen. Sarnoff Reports Firm's Defense Production Activity

Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, USAR, has reported that shipments to the Armed Forces during 1953 constituted 19 per cent of the total sales of the Radio Corporation of America.

"While defense spending may decline from the recent peak levels," General Sarnoff said, "the use of radio and electronics, in both the development of new weapons and in the modernization of existing weapons, steadily increases."

RCA sales and services to the Government were reported at $55-million during the first three months of this year. This was approximately 24 per cent of RCA's total volume of business for the quarter, which was the largest of any first quarter period in the history of RCA.

"Production is underway," General Sarnoff declared, "on a series of important military products which have been developed by RCA for the Department of Defense. These include advanced types of land, sea and airborne communications, as well as radar, loran, shoran and fire control systems. We are also at work for the Government on developments and devices which are classified."

S. Tariff Commission. Mr. Novick is also a member of Faculty, New York University.

The May meeting of the Armed Forces Management Technicians' Association is sponsored by the Programming Division, Mr. Elmo Jensen, Chairman.

CHAMBER SALUTES THE SERVICES

President Clem D. Johnston of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today, 8 May, issued the following Armed Forces Day statement:

"Armed Forces Day offers a unique opportunity for every patriotic American to pay deserving tribute to the members of our armed forces.

"On behalf of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and its underlying membership of more than 1,300,000 businessmen, I am honored by the privilege of saluting the more than 3,000,000 men and women in uniform for the sacrifices they have made and stand ready to make to preserve our way of life.

"At the same time, I want to commend the thousands of reservists and National Guardsmen who are helping improve the state of readiness of our reserve forces by actively participating in the various civilian component training programs. It is vital that we have a strong well-trained reserve as a full-fledged partner to the active components of the armed forces. Unfortunately, we do not now have such a reserve.

"Finally, I want to salute the civilian leaders of the Department of Defense for their determination to give the country a more effective defense program for less money. . . .

"We of the National Chamber are proud of the historic teamwork between American industry and the armed forces, particularly in times of national emergency. And we are equally proud of the fact that most employers are giving members of the reserve forces equality of employment and promotion opportunities and are granting special leave of absence to such employees to enable them to maintain their reserve status."

U. S. COAST GUARD

Secretary of The Treasury—George M. Humphrey
Commandant—Vice Adm. Merlin O'Neill

CONSIDERABLE discontent is being heard as approximately 1,700 Coast Guard officers view the approach of the second set of officer promotion examinations, scheduled for 11 May.

It is reported that relatively few officers who are required to take the examinations approve of the system. On the contrary, it is said there is a large group that thinks the examinations are unfair.

In all, there are 28 examinations. There is no penalty for failure the first time, but a second failure in the same subject puts an officer permanently out of line for promotion.

Seven per cent failed the first examination.

Many Coast Guard officers feel that the examinations are an imposition since none of the other Services must meet such a requisite. The Navy, however, is considering the reestablishment of officer promotion examinations (THE JOURNAL 10 April).

At present, there are two classifications of officers in the Coast Guard—General Duty Officers and Special Duty Officers. As set up in the Coast Guard, "The spirit of the examinations is to encourage all officers to become General Duty Officers," an official said this week.

The promotion disadvantages of being a SDO are apparent in Personnel Circular 17-53 which limits the number of SDO commanders to 12. There are no captains authorized in the 13 SDO categories. Further, the promotion rate is slower for SDO's, even in the lower grades. About two GDO's must be promoted for every SDO.

The circular states that "General duty officers qualified for promotion will be promoted as vacancies occur even though promotion of special duty officers senior in precedence may be delayed. . . ."

Another major complaint is that an ensign is only required to take five examinations and need not take any further examinations until he has been promoted. Some commanders, on the other hand, must take 19 examinations—one every four months—before he is eligible for promotion to captain.

Another complaint expressed is that some lieutenant commanders and commanders, who have had command responsibilities, are required to take such basic subjects as Seamanship and Marine Navigation, Part I. Some officers feel that recognition, by way of exemption from basic subjects, should be given for past command performance.

Headquarters officials frankly admit that there is an inequity in such cases, but point out that after the program has run for a few years, such situations will no longer exist. One official pointed out that "it would be about impossible to set up a workable cut-off for the determination of experience."

Further objections are expressed regarding the frequency of the examinations.

Some officers believe that a breather should be given between the testing periods. As now scheduled, officers are requested to apply for U. S. Naval Correspondence Courses (on which the examinations are based) when they have completed three quarters of the previous one. Since most of the shore based officers must study during off-duty hours, they claim that the long hours of study unduly interfere with their home life. When the examinations were begun in January, one officer, who was indecisive as to continuing his career, is reported to have said that the introduction of the examinations "Was the straw that broke the camel's back."

It is also felt by some that the table in Personnel Circular 17-53 which gives the approximate number of hours required for the preparation of the various courses is unrealistic. The actual number of hours necessary for proper preparation is at least three times greater than the table indicates, some officers say. Headquarters concedes that this is a legitimate complaint and admits that many more hours than are shown in the table are actually necessary.

Other officers contend that the examinations are a waste of time since they are non-competitive in so far as promotion opportunities are concerned. Headquarters, however, points out that the examinations are invaluable in building a service in which a maximum of officers will be qualified to handle any job within the Coast Guard's table of organization.

An official stated that Headquarters via the scuttlebutt route is fully aware of the complaints of the Coast Guard's junior officers. He said, however, that Headquarters has no intention of modifying the program. "The advantages outweigh the disadvantages," he said.

10% Elect USCOA Option

Figures released by the Coast Guard reveal an increase of 1.23 per cent in the number of retired personnel who have elected to make a selection under the terms of the Uniform Services Contingency Option Act.

During the three-week period, 5 Apr. to 26 Apr., the percentage figure rose from 9.00 per cent to 10.23 per cent.

The figures show that 149 commissioned officers (an increase of 40), 34 warrant officers (an increase of 13), and 110 enlisted men (an increase of 38), have chosen to make an election.

The increase of 91, from 202 to 293, affirmative elections contrasts with the increase of 579 rejections (from 1,990 to 2,569).

During the same period 599 more active duty members returned forms (an increase from 712 to 1,311), with 176 electing to take an option (an increase from 71 to 247).

Complete Text of Air Force Statement on POW Repatriate Decision

SUBJECT: REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS OF SPECIAL BOARD OF OFFICERS APPOINTED FOR THE PURPOSE OF RECOMMENDING DISPOSITION IN THE CASES OF CERTAIN AIR FORCE POW REPATRIATES OF THE KOREAN WAR

TO: THE CHIEF OF STAFF
UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

1. This report covers the proceedings of a board of officers which convened in Room 4C 1040, National Defense Building, Washington 25, D. C., pursuant to Letter Order, subject: "Letter of Instructions—Special Board of Officers," dated 26 January 1954.

2. A quorum consisting of the following members and recorder met pursuant to the foregoing order at 0900 hours, 8 February 1954, and continued its deliberations until 12 March 1954:

Lt. Gen. Idwal H. Edwards, IIA (Ret.), President; Maj. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, 87A, Member; Maj. Gen. Jarred V. Crabb, 535A, Member; Brig. Gen. Monroe MacCloskey, 318A, Member; Brig. Gen. Richard H. Carmichael, 1214A, Member; and Col. John J. Hutchinson, 2451A, Recorder; (without vote).

3. All members were present.

4. Procedure.

a. The Letter Order appointing the Board and furnishing detailed instructions thereto was read by each member of the Board.

b. The members of the Board and the Recorder were properly sworn.

c. The Board analyzed its purpose and responsibilities under the directive as requiring:

(1) A review of all the records in each individual case referred to it.

(2) A recommendation as to disposition of each case, viz:

(a) For action under Article 32, Uniform Code of Military Justice, or comparable action under Federal Civil Statutes in the case of individuals released from active duty.

(b) For selection to show cause for retention in the service under P. L. 810, AFR 36-2, or other applicable regulations.

(c) Removal from possible future prejudice by closing the case.

d. The Board noted that only the cases of those repatriated POWs who were the subject of any derogatory remarks, even if of a minor nature, were submitted for consideration. (83 out of a total 220.)

e. It was also noted that the Board's authority was non-statutory in nature, that it was not empowered to summon witnesses, that its action was confined to an examination of the records and that its recommendations were advisory only and, if accepted, further statutory actions would be undertaken with the rights of any accused fully protected by law and regulations.

f. The Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel, furnished the Board with the names, records and reports of investigation of the 83 individuals involved. Each individual case history consisted of (1) a report of the Joint Intelligence Processing Board, which interviewed each individual immediately after repatriation, (2) a psychiatric report on each individual, (3) a report of interview conducted later and in greater detail by special agents of the Office of Special Investigations, Inspector General, USAF, and (4) sworn statements accomplished by each individual and by others having knowledge of any pertinent facts and circumstances.

g. Consultants in the field of law, medicine, techniques of prisoner of war interrogations and Communist psychological warfare methods advised the Board on matters pertinent to its deliberations.

h. The instructions with reference to the conduct of POWs and the permissible disclosure of information in effect through all levels of command during the period of the Korean War were inquired into by the Board. In addition, the Board interviewed certain commanders and intelligence officers formerly assigned to FEAF combat commands during the Korean War.

i. Each individual case history was carefully examined by every member of the Board to ascertain whether in any of them there was a reasonable failure to measure up to the standard of individual conduct which is expected of a prisoner of war or any deviation from standards of behavior prescribed by law.

j. The Board developed and applied the following criteria in passing individual judgment in each case:

(1) The nature and extent of alleged collaboration as measured by its possible detrimental effect upon National Security, the war effort and the welfare of other POWs.

(2) The nature and extent of duress applied by the enemy.

(3) The amount of resistance displayed by the individual.

(4) The nature and extent of previous instruction, guidance and indoctrination given to each individual pertaining to conduct as a POW.

(5) The conclusiveness of the evidence substantiating the alleged offense.

(6) The possible effects of the action of the Board upon discipline and morale of the Armed Forces, both present and future.

k. In order to obtain an overall view across the entire range of the conduct of our prisoners of war, the Board also examined a number of so-called "clean" cases of individuals who had successfully refused collaboration and which were not referred to the Board for action.

5. CONCLUSIONS

a. A review of the cases disclosed that the actions of individuals involved ranged from possible violations of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, through possible misconduct justifying administrative action, to outstanding acts of courage and heroism. Possible offenses fall into four broad categories as follows:

(1) "False confessions" to BW, uncomplicated by any other acts of misconduct or collaboration.

(2) "False confessions" to BW, aggravated by other acts of misconduct or collaboration such as actively and personally influencing fellow POWs to "confess," collaborating in enemy propaganda by personal broadcasts, lectures, published writings, etc.

(3) Misconduct not associated with, or contributing to, enemy propaganda, such as undue fraternization, informing, etc.

(4) Unauthorized disclosure of military information to the enemy.

b. The inhuman treatment to which our POWs were subjected has been well documented and publicized. The Board, in arriving at its findings, took into consideration the nature, degree and duration of duress in each individual case.

c. The briefing and indoctrination given our combat personnel as to conduct of prisoners of war was inadequate and confusing. Published policy and directives in this regard were given mixed interpretation at various command levels. With respect to the so-called BW "confessions" particularly, there was a lack of direction and even appreciation of the problem throughout all levels of command even after these "confessions" were public knowledge.

6. FINDINGS

a. That duress or other extenuating circumstances existed in all cases to such a degree as to absolve any individual from action under Article 32 Uniform Code of Military Justice.

b. That "false confessions" in the cases of 27 individuals uncomplicated by other acts of collaboration do not warrant further action under P. L. 810, AFR 36-2 or other administrative procedures for selection to show cause for retention in the service.

c. That the "false confessions" in the cases of nine individuals, when considered with other elements in their cases, raise a serious question concerning their continued usefulness in the Air Force and warrant selecting these individuals to show cause for retention in the Service under applicable procedures.

d. That the reported actions of five other individuals raise a serious question concerning their continued usefulness in the Air Force and warrant selecting these individuals to show cause for retention in the Service under applicable procedures.

e. That in the cases examined, disclosure of military information to the enemy by USAF prisoners of war does not warrant further action.

7. RECOMMENDATIONS

The Board unanimously recommends:

a. That no action under Article 32 Uniform Code of Military Justice be taken in any case considered by the Board.

b. That the 14 individuals be required to show cause for retention in the Service under P. L. 810, AFR 36-2, or for separation under other applicable procedures.

c. That the cases of the 69 individuals be closed and those individuals be removed from any possible future prejudice for their actions as prisoners of war.

tary personnel during the 16 years I have been sitting on this committee. I think it is an outrage. And those who are appropriating ought to begin studying for a very logical excuse, which is not apparent at this time."

The Defense Department said that the doctors drafted by the Navy will be called in the following increments: June—360; July—120.

Navy Drafts Doctors for First Time But Dependent Care "Pinch" to Continue

The Navy will draft 480 doctors in June and July, but still will be "pinched" to provide as much dependent care as it has in the past.

A Navy spokesman said that with the addition of these medical officers, it is expected that a ratio of 3.26 per 1,000 personnel will be reached by 1 October.

The Department of Defense has directed the Navy to reach this figure, in spite of the Navy's repeated contention that it needs a 4.00 ratio to provide complete and adequate care for active duty personnel and to maintain the same level of dependent care for military dependents as it has been accustomed to provide.

RAdm. Herbert L. Pugh, MC, USN,

Chief of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, made this point clear at recent hearings before a House Appropriations Subcommittee when he testified that "the Medical Department of the Navy cannot continue to fulfill the mission it has been fulfilling in the manner that it has been fulfilling it with less than four doctors per thousand active-duty personnel and to take care of the dependents that we have been accustomed to take care of. We begin to be pinched when we drop below four per thousand."

He pointed out that because the Navy has a higher degree of fragmentation of personnel, it needs a greater ratio of doctors than her sister services.

During the budget hearings, Representative Harry R. Sheppard (D-Calif.) stated that "There is no question in my mind that there has been a very studious approach to the elimination of dependents' care in violation of at least a tentative contract with every man in the military service."

Mr. Sheppard added, "This to me is one of the most flagrant violations of confidence that has been made on mili-
